FINAL ANNOUNCEMENT: ISHWM CON 2010

Dear Colleagues,

Indian Society of Hospital Waste Management (ISHWM) is organising its annual conference, ISHWM CON 2010 on 30th and 31st October 2010 (Saturday & Sunday) at the India Habitat Centre, New Delhi. The Theme is:

“Safe & Effective Biomedical Waste Management”

The theme is contemporary and important for preserving human health. Safety to healthcare workers and patients is of paramount importance. It is now a well established fact that biomedical waste can lead to environmental degradation and adverse effects on human health in many ways. At the same time it is noticed that even after a lapse of a decade all healthcare facilities are far from establishing proper healthcare waste management systems in their facilities, which is so important for infection control. We are witnessing mutation of microbes. We have to find effective waste management strategies not only for healthcare facilities in the urban areas but also in the rural areas where no initiative is visible so far.

A large number of doctors and all those connected with Planning and Development of systems of Health Care Waste Management will be participating in the conference. It would be an excellent platform for all to participate and exchange views and ideas, and share experiences.

Delhi has pleasant weather in the month of October. At the same time, Delhi and the area around offer excellent opportunity for sight seeing. If informed in advance, event managers will be glad to provide for sightseeing tours etc at individual cost.

Air Mshl Lalji K Verma AVSM (Retd)
Chairman, Organising Committee
